1. The Military Technical Academy in Warsaw is to become the largest technical school in Poland. The directorate of the academy has been given the authority to requisition any machinery and equipment needed by the school from any industrial establishment in Poland. Among the new acquisitions of the academy is an aero-dynamic tunnel which was transferred from the Warsaw Polytechnic to the academy.
 2. An unspecified number of Russians, Bulgarians and Rumanians are presently attending the school. Polish candidates to the academy are chosen only from the ranks of the ZMP (Zwiazek Mlodziezy Polskiej-Union of Polish Youth). The entrance examination is extremely difficult. The results of the political examinations are no longer decisive in governing admission to the academy. To be admitted, the candidate must receive above average grades in technical subjects whereas an average grade in Marxism-Leninism is sufficient.
 3. Students in the academy wear uniforms which are identical to those worn by students in cadet officers' schools. The epaulet¹ of the academy student is an "A" in a circle.

25X1 [REDACTED] Comment: Possibly the shoulder patch.
